The ancient port of King's Lynn, at the edge of the Fens and near the mouth of the River Ouse (or Great Ouse), contains many architectural examples of its commercial history, including St. George's Guildhall (1406). Many 12th to 14th century village churches in the Fens are notable for their carvings and roofs and attest to the historical agricultural prosperity of this section of the Fens. With 2 hours at your leisure, we make our way to the final visit of the day – Peterborough. BRIDGNORTH MARKET & UPTON CRESSETT HALL & GARDENS – NEW FOR 2022 BROCHURE

Bridgnorth, in reality, is two towns: the High Town (good views down) and the Low Town (good views up), now connected by the steepest inland funicular railway in Britain. With 2 hours to peruse, we head for Upton Cressett Hall for 1330. The Hall as it stands today was built in the late 16th century – with the remains of a fifteenth-century Great Hall – and is reputed to be the oldest dated house built entirely of brick in Shropshire. A 'date-stone' of 1580 can clearly be seen on the front of the house from the Moat Lawn. From the 14th century until 1926, the historic estate belonged to the Cressett family – Shropshire landowners and royalist courtiers – and their descendants. The Cressett direct line died out with the death of Elizabeth Cressett in 1792, after which the estate passed through various branches of the Pelham Cressett and Thursby Pelham family (which included two prime ministers). Today, you will have a tour of the hall and gardens, and we perfectly conclude with tea and cake in the new Dragon Hall !
